Two different FAG wheel bearing sets are offered for the abovementioned vehicles. The two wheel bearings are nearly identical to one another and differ only according to the diameter of the CV Joint splined shaft that fits into the wheel hub.

In order to select the correct bearing, the outer diameter of the splined section the CV Joint shaft must be measured (Figure 1) and the corresponding wheel bearing must be used.
